of the district attorney's office, was called by the woman's family at an early hour, and was informed that she retired late last night, feeling very despondent about her trial, which was to have taken place to-day. She arose in the night and went into the bath-room where she fell dead. Madame stated to a friend last night that she did not care what might be the result of the trial so far as she herself was concerned; she only cared for the reputation and feelings of her grand-children. The case was called in court today and adjourned.

Madame Restelle committed suicide

Madame Restelle committed suicide by cutting her throat with a carving knife. She was found in a bath-tub which was filled with water. Dr. Cushman, the coroner's physician, examined the body and found that a deep gash had been cut across the throat, severing the jugular vein. A slight cut on the right side of the neck, a little below this gash, indicated that the first attempt had been ineffectual. It was Dr. Cushman's opinion that death was caused almost instantly. The knife was a long carving knife, which was used on Madame' Restelle's table, and which she is believed to have taken up stairs and secreted in her room last night. The water had been left running in the bath-The water had been left running in the bathtub, and had run so long that the tank above was exhausted. The overflow had passed of through the waste pipe, and hence there was but little blood in the water which still filed the tub. The body was cold, and it was evi-dent that the woman had been dead for some hours. Ever since her arrest she had manifested great fear and anxiety on account of the belief that the prosecution intended to bring other charges against her in reference to the old cases.
